"Let me guard myself against misunderstanding. God forbid that I should utter a word that could add a feather's weight to the heavy burden that rests on the President's shoulders. All true Americans should wish to support their chief magistrate and to labor Should Support the President.

"The President no doubt desires to speech, it may well be that the voice of the pulpit—which has no political or racial bias—will have unique value as an expression of public sentiment. We who minister in the things of God occupy a position of detachment, unaf-occupy a position of detachment, unaffected by the current of politics or of commercial interest.

"The people are heartily with the President in his patriotic purpose to put the country in a state of preparation against any attack that may be made upon it by a foreign power; and we believe that the people would be just as heartily with him if he should justify the stern purpose expressed in his last note to Germany, by appropriate action now."

Miss Elizabeth Harrison wore a striking dress of deep red chiffon velvet, both bodice and skirt draped in folds. The irregular edge of the skirt was outlined with silver braid, as was the waist. Her jewelry was of coral set in old-fashioned flower designs and included an ornament worn in the middle of the forehead, held by a narrow silver band.

cluded an ornament worn in the middle of the Church of the Epiphany, preached a Thanksgiving sermon this morning entitled "National Opportunity and Responsibility," in which he indered the President's program for increased military preparedness, and in which he appealed to President Wilson "to adhere bravely to the principles he has so clearly enunciated in his diplomatic correspondence with Germany." In the latter connection he said.

"Is it too much to ask him to banish from our shores the plotters and conspirators who, wearing the livery of foreign nations and accepted as representatives of friendly powers, have been using their diplomatic positions as bases whence to wage war against the peace of our country?"

Dr. McKim said, in part:

"There are crises in the history of a nation when the words of Christ, "He that saveth his life shall lose it," find their national application. Better even the losses and the sufferings of war, terrible as they are, than the loss of honor—the failure to respond to our national name! on the President's shoulders. All true Americans should wish to support their chief magistrate and to labor sympathetically with him in his efforts to grapple with the difficult tasks that confront him at this crisis.

"But it is for that very reason that we appeal to him to adhere bravely to the principles he has so clearly enunciated in his diplomatic correspondence with Germany. We are confident that a courageous course of action, just in line with his strong and patriotic utterance last spring and summer, would lighten his burden and clear out of his pathway many of the difficulties and dangers that now beset it. It is our friendliness to him—our sincere loyalty—our carnest wish that he should overcome the difficulties that face him, and triumph over the people who are at once his enemies and the enemies of our country, that moves us to urge upon him a different course from that which he is now pursuing—to selze the opportunity that again presents itself to take bold and decisive action in vindication of the honor of our country.

"Is it too much to ask him to banish from our shores the plotters and conspirators, who, wearing the livery of foreign nations, and accepted as representatives of friendly powers, have been using their diplomatic positions as bases whence to wage war against the peace of our country?

Special Correspondence of The Star.

FAIRFAX, Va., November 25.—The marriage of Mr. Wilson M. Farr and Mrs. Wiliam Allises Edith Regina Wiley, daughter of County Treasurer and Mrs. Robert Wiley, took place last night at Ballynahown, the home which Mr. Farr

November 20, at 8 o'clock, in the presence of the immediate relatives, at the home of the bride's parents, 636 C streat northeast.

The ceremony, which was performed by an uncle of the bride, Rev. C. A. Shreve, was followed by a reception. Palms and quantities of chrysanthemums formed the decoration. Just before the ceremony Miss Edna Shreve, a sister of the bride, sang "O. Promise Me."

The bride wore a white tulle dress over white crepe de chine, and a tuile vell, fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses.

Miss Mildred Shreve, who was her sister's only attendant, wore a becoming gown of pink tulle over pink crepe de chine, and carried pink roses.

Upon their return they will reside on

The bride's gown was of white crepe meteor trimmed with lace, worn by her great-grandmother at her wedding, and used successively by each generation since at their weddings. Her vell of tulle was caught up with natural orange blossoms sent from California, and she carried a shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Her only ornament was a handsome brooch, an heirloom in the groom's family, and his gift to the bride. The maid of honor wore yellow taffeta and chiffon, and carried lavender chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids' gowns were of white taffeta, with old gold boleros, and they carried yellow chrysanthemums.

A reception followed the wedding from 8 to 10 o'clock, and afterward Mr. and Mrs. Farr left for a short wedding trip, the bride's going-away gown being a tailored suit of dark blue broadcloth, trimmed with fur, with blue velvet toque. The out-of-town guests included Mrs.
